John Y. Brown Jr. Wins Nomination For Governor To Face Louie Nunn On November Ballot

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Multimillionaire John Y. Brown Jr., claiming that Kentucky needs a businessman as governor for a change, has won the Democratic nomination to the post after a whirlwind two-month campaign.

"This is going to be a new day in Kentucky politics," he proclaimed in an appearance early today with his glamorous new wife, former Miss America Phyllis George.

By defeating four major rivals in one of the state's most unusual gubernatorial primaries, the 45-year-old fast food and sports promoter earned the right to face former Gov. Louie Nunn, who easily won the Republican primary, in November.

Brown's victory ended a suspenseful vote-counting night, during which former Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane doggedly maintained a slim lead over Brown by virtue of a huge margin in Jefferson County.

The favorite of the state administration, Terry McBrayer, conceded defeat fairly early and declared that Brown was the victor.

So did Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall, who only two months ago was regarded as the front runner among major gubernatorial contenders.

A fifth contestant, Rep. Carroll Hubbard, D-Ky., ran far back along with Mrs. Stovall.

In the Democratic race for lieutenant governor, state Supreme Court clerk Martha Layne Collins defeated five male rivals to win nomination. She will face Republican Harold Rogers of Somerset in the fall.

With 97 percent of the vote counted unofficially, Brown had 153,071 votes, or 28 percent of the total, compared with 132,839, or 24 percent, for Sloane.

Many western Kentucky counties located in the central time zone, and therefore late in reporting, turned the tide for Brown.

Another break was supplied by another major candidate, state Auditor George Atkins, who withdrew two weeks ago and threw his support to Brown in an apparent effort to block nomination of McBrayer. Atkins is from western Kentucky.

McBrayer was running third with 124,626 votes, or 23 percent of the total vote.

Sloane, declining to concede defeat yet, said his big surprise was the poor showing of McBrayer.

He implied that much of his strategy was based on a deadlock between Brown and McBrayer which would have enabled him to slip through to victory.

Instead, Brown appeared to be picking up support all over the state that was presumably locked in for McBrayer.

Hubbard, the most bitter anti-administration contender, ran fourth with 68,066 votes, or 12 percent of the total, and Mrs. Stovall was last with 45,103, or 8 percent.

Both expressed disappointment, but gave no reasons immediately for their poor showing.

Hubbard had complained a week ago that it was almost too much for him to compete against both Brown's vast

Hospital Seeks Teenagers For Volunteers

Applicants are being accepted for this summer's Teenage Volunteer program at Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

An organizational meeting for all interested teenagers will be held Monday, June 4, in the hospital lobby at 10:30 a.m. The nine-week program begins officially with morning orientation sessions Wednesday, June 6, and Thursday, June 7, and ends August 11.

The program is open to teenagers who will be at least 14 years old when the program begins and have their parents consent to be a volunteer.

Volunteers will be able to select the day or days they wish to work, but each must agree to devote at least four consecutive hours of work per week. Volunteers may be absent, however, for vacation or camp.

Depending on time and day preferences, jobs are available in areas such as x-ray, laboratory, dietary, central supply, business office, physical therapy, housekeeping, and nursing. Seniority and early applications are factors in job placement.

Persons may contact the Hospital's Public Relations office at 753-5131, extension 338 for more information.

A total of 7,259 Calloway Countians turned out Tuesday to cast their votes for a variety of statewide and local offices in the May Primary.

According to Calloway County Clerk Marvin Harris, the number voting Tuesday is about 49 percent of the 16,000 registered voters in Calloway County.

Locally, 12 Democratic nominees for the Murray Common Council were chosen from the field of 17. Included in those elected were nine incumbents, a former councilman, and two newcomers, while one incumbent and four newcomers to the race failed to muster enough votes.

Leading the council race with 2,300 votes was Dr. C. C. Lowry, an incumbent. Others elected to the council in the order of votes received were: Dr. J. D. Outland, 1,809, incumbent; J. H. (Hardiman) Nix, 1,593, incumbent; Howard Koenen, 1,508, incumbent; William R. Furches, 1,480, incumbent; Steve Sammons, 1,475; Marshall Jones, 1,473, incumbent; William Bailey, incumbent; Harry Russell, 923; and Dorothy Sheeks, 566.

The 12 Democratic nominees will face opposition from Republican incumbent councilman Stephen Yarbrough in the November General Election.

Calloway County voters went with Fred Curd for Fifth District state representative. Curd garnered 2,890 votes in Calloway County and 421 votes in Trigg County for a total of 3,311. A portion of Trigg County is included in the Fifth District.

Mary Jane Littleton finished second in Calloway with 1,659 votes and second in Trigg with 350 votes for a total of 2,009. J. William Phillips with 1,426 votes in Calloway and 105 votes in Trigg finished third with a total of 1,531.

Rainey's Day

By RAINEY APPERSON

"Late Bloomer" Jean Blankenship has written the most piercing - tell it like it is - article for the June issue of McCall's. It is in the section called "Women on the Job: A Reader's Story," and Jean (Mrs. Macon) entitled her thoughts, "Call Me A Late Bloomer." It is a heart warming account of a woman, just like you or me, who has dreams and schemes, and she made them come true. For her efforts in telling her story, she received a nice sizeable check from McCall's.

Also a radio station in Windsor, Canada, called this week for an interview. In the near future, McCall's is planning to fly her to New York for some personal appearances.

Her article is so timely for so many women in America today. Dr. Joyce Brothers has written several publications on women in their 40's, with a high school education, no college degree, and out in the job market. Don't miss this McCall's story - it is great!

It's Charity Ball time and Jana (Mrs. Don) Hughes is serving as chairman this year. Byron Gallimore's Band "Commonwealth" will be playing from 9 till 1 at the Murray Country Club. Tickets are priced at $25.00 and they are tax deductible.

Janet and Tom Denton are working very hard on the "Disco '79" decorations, and I hear they will be fabulous. Dean Poston is in charge of selling tickets and Linda Kelly is handling the donations. So come on everybody, attend the Charity Ball. All proceeds go to the Comprehensive Care Center of Murray.

It was so good this week to see Artie Petty out of the hospital and out about at the grocery. She said she was a little on the weak side, but so happy to be out again.

We spent Memorial Day week-end in Mississippi for a family wedding. Naturally we were a little concerned about traveling and the gas situation; but I am happy to report that three-fourths of the stations had plenty of gas, and also stayed open on Sunday for the travelers. Since tourism is the third largest industry in the U. S., we've got to solve this gas problem, or else.

Stuart Thomas Adams, of Frankfort, received the doctor of medicine degree at the 16th commencement of the University of Kentucky College of Medicine on May 13. Dr. Adams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Adams, of Frankfort. He is the grandson of Mr. Loren Adams of Murray, formerly of Mayfield, and the late Katherine Wilson Adams.

Dr. Adams will begin a six-year residency on July 1 in obstetrics and gynecology at Richmond Memorial Hospital, Columbia, S.C.

Miss Teague Is Wed To Mr. Lassiter At Church

Miss Deborah Sue Teague, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow L. Teague of Brewers, and Jerry Lee Lassiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lassiter of Murray, were married on Saturday, May 5, at 2 p.m. at the Coles Camp Ground United Methodist Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fred French. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Otto Erwin, pianist.

The wedding vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli. Boxwood greenery interspersed with stephanotis accented the altar rail. The family pews were marked by mint green satin bows.

Bride's Dress

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal gown of white silk embroidered organza. The dress featured a Victorian pleated neckline, a high bodice, and long tapered sleeves with cuffs of crystal pleating. The a-line skirt was enhanced by crystal pleating at the hemline. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a Juliet headpiece of lace.

She carried a white Bible trimmed with white gardenias, stephanotis, lilies of the valley, and white satin streamers tied in love knots.

Mrs. Zandra Brandon of Murray served as matron of honor. Her gown was a formal light blue woven leno accented with lace and ribbon. She wore a blue summer hat tied with a cream satin ribbon. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid.

The groom chose for his best man, Donnie Williams of Murray. Ushers were brothers-in-law of the bride, Bill Beasley and Paul Harp of Paducah.

The mother of the bride was attired in a light blue floral voile jacketed dress. The groom's mother wore a street length dress of baby blue quiana. Both mothers had corsages of white orchids.

Reception

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Serving the guests were nieces of the bride, Jennifer Beasley and Kerry Harp, who were assisted by the bride's sisters, Joyce Harp and Patsy Beasley.

The couple left after the reception for a short wedding trip and are now residing at 807 North 18th Street, Murray. Mrs. Lassiter is employed at the Bank of Murray and Mr. Lassiter is a funeral director at the Blalock-Coleman Funeral Home.

McKinney-Parker Vows To Be Read Saturday

Plans have been completed for the marriage of Miss Martha McKinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. McKinney, and David Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Parker.

The vows will be exchanged on Saturday, June 2, at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Murray, with the Rev. Dr. Bill Whittaker officiating at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. G. M. Knight and Mrs. John Bowker will present piano and organ music, and Mrs. Vernon Shown will sing solos.

The bride-elect, to be given in marriage by her parents, has chosen her sister, Miss Mary McKinney of Nashville, Tenn., as her maid of honor, and Mrs. Ronnie Mayfield of Snyder, Texas, as her matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be the groom-elect's sister, Miss Beverly Parker of Roswell, Ga., Miss Karen Gordon of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Mrs. Craig Parker and Mrs. Carl Hosford, both of Murray.

James W. Parker will attend his son as best man. Groomsmen will be Steve Davidson of Fort Worth, Texas, cousin of the groom-elect, Craig Parker, Ron Wright, Ed Fenton, and Doug Lindsey, all of Murray.

Ushers will be David Reed, Calvert City, Mike Calhoun and Tracey Calhoun of Cadiz, cousins of the bride-elect, and Mark Kennedy and Mike Outland of Murray.

Miss Kris Dobroski of Evansville, Ind., and Miss Terri Erwin of Murray will keep the register. The wedding will be directed by Miss Carrie Joy Wellorn of Elkton. A reception will follow the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend the wedding and the reception.

HEALTH

Ulcerative colitis

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am one of the thousands of people who suffer from ulcerative colitis. I've had it for the past 10 months. I was in the hospital and had all the tests made and I am taking Mil-path after meals and Me-tamucil at bedtime. I am on a very restrictive diet. I am 55, am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 115 pounds. I never smoked or drank alcoholic beverages. Will you please suggest some other treatment or medicine I can suggest to my doctor so I can get rid of this problem soon? My doctor said I will probably feel better within a few months. My diet which I'm enclosing is so bad that you can see that I'm not living, I'm just existing. Thank you very much for any advice you can give. DEAR READER - Ulcerative colitis is a very complex disease and its exact cause is not understood. I must assume that you're correct in telling me that is your diagnosis. This is not at all the same thing as a spastic or irritable colon and the treatment is entirely different.

Patients with ulcerative colitis usually have episodes of severe diarrhea, sometimes they have bleeding and they have abdominal pain with the episodes of diarrhea. Because of the heavy diarrhea, they frequently lose weight and they may develop nutritional deficiencies because of it. The salt and water metabolism may be disturbed and, in general, the patients are pretty uncomfortable. The attacks may subside spontaneously and not occur again for some time.

The usual treatment is to try to stop the attack as quickly as possible. There are several medicines used for this. A common one is Azulfidine. Most antibiotics, however, don't help at all. They're used only if you have a complication such as a perforation or an abscess where there is an actual infection. Corticosterone or other steroid hormones are frequently used and are often useful in aborting the attack. The prolonged use of steroid hormones, however, may lead to other problems.

I looked over your diet. Many doctors do not think a special diet is particularly important. In fact, it's dangerous sometimes to have a diet that's too restricted because the patient's nutrition is already marginal. There is such a thing as an elemental diet that provides essential amino acids, vitamins, minerals and glucose and safflower oil as a mixture. This is almost entirely absorbed in the small intestine so there's very little residue left to enter the inflamed and ulcerated colon.

Among your lists of foods I would question the inclusion of milk and milk products. Ulcerative colitis patients usually do not tolerate milk and milk products well. Apple sauce and apple juice are not necessarily soothing to the digestive system. The flavor oils in decaffeinated coffee are sometimes very irritating to people with a sensitive colon.

Patients have recurrent attacks so don't expect any sudden miracle cure or permanent relief.

Readers who want information about diarrhea conditions can send for The Health Letter number 13-6. Send your request with 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 40019.

The Tau Phi Lambda, Woodmen of the World, Unit 827, met in the home of Linda Fain with Ann Spann, president, presiding and nine members present.

Jean Richerson reported that the 1978-79 scrapbook won first place at the state WOW convention.

Tray favors were presented to the pediatric ward at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital, according to Judy McCarty. She also said that household goods were given to the Swift family whose home was recently destroyed by fire.

Bride-elect Is Honored At Tea Held At Bank Building

The Community Room of the University Branch of the Bank of Murray was the scene of a pre-nuptial tea on May 12 honoring Miss Martha McKinney, June 2nd bride-elect of David Parker.

Hostesses presiding over the tea were Mrs. Frank Roberts, Mrs. Vernon Roberts, Mrs. Earl Padgett, Mrs. Rod Cook, Mrs. Ralph Moss, Mrs. Gene Roberts, Mrs. Hollis Roberts, and Miss Jo Anne Roberts.

The honoree was assisted in the receiving line by her mother, Mrs. John McKinney, the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. James Parker, her grandmother, Mrs. Seldon Ahart, and the groom-elect's grandmothers, Mrs. Hafford Parker and Mrs. Grogan Roberts. All were presented corsages of silk roses by the hostesses.

For the occasion Miss McKinney selected from her trousseau a floor length mint green gown, featuring an accordion pleated skirt and lace neckline.

Presiding at the register was recently destroyed by fire. The sorority voted to donate money to the Special Olympics to be held at Murray State University.

The door prize was won by Marilyn Herndon. Refreshments were served by Linda Fain and Donna Garland.

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren Retardation— Not a Dead End, Only a Detour!

DEAR ABBY: Enclosed please find my check for $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope for your booklet "How to Have a Lovely Wedding."

This wedding has to be specially lovely, because it is for a special daughter and a special young man. Both were labeled retarded as children, but have overcome their handicap and grown into mature, capable people. (She is 31 and he is 29.) Both work and are able to manage their own affairs with a little assistance from both sets of parents.

Friends and relatives are so happy that this beautiful couple found each other. If they were growing up today I'm sure they would not be labeled retarded, but would be considered to have "learning disabilities." They will be married in a church because their religion means so much to both of them.

This is my first letter to Dear Abby, and the only advice I need is how to make this wedding one of the loveliest our family has ever had.

REJOICING IN N.Y.

DEAR REJOICING: Thank you for a beautiful letter bearing a message of hope for all "special" children and their families. May the happy couple enjoy all of God's blessings.

DEAR ABBY: Frannie asked if birth control pills were deductible, and you replied, "Only if they don't work."

Cute answer, but for your information, according to Internal Revenue ruling 73-200, birth control pills are deductible whether they work or not — if prescribed by a physician.

NEIL WITH THE IRS

DEAR NEIL: Thanks for the info. Who am I to argue with the IRS? They're the nice people who know you can't take it with you — so they remove the temptation.

DEAR ABBY: I have two big, good-looking sons. One is 18 and the other is 16, but he's as big as his older brother. These boys have been fighting each other ever since they were old enough to swing their arms.

The 18-year-old just bought himself a secondhand car with his savings. He drove past his brother walking down the road and wouldn't even give him a lift.

The younger brother keeps his clothes in better shape, so the older one helps himself to his brother's clothes without asking. These boys fight and cuss like a couple of mule skinner.

Why can't they act like brothers?
TENNESSEE MOM

DEAR MOM: They do. Cain and Abel.

DEAR ABBY: Today I received a note which read, "Please give Suzie another week to pay for the social studies books she lost as we are making her pay for it out of her baby-sitting money."

Abby, if more parents taught that kind of responsibility at home, our job would be a great deal easier!

A JUNIOR HIGH TEACHER
ALVIN, TEXAS

DEAR TEACHER: Amen!

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212

All Winners

Any contest, be it a friendly game of checkers, the Super Bowl or a race for elected office, has winners and losers.

Today there are many of each within the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The May 1979 Primary Elections are now history. Those nominated by their parties now must look to the General Election in November.

The losers should not be despondent. If it were not for our democratic system, which allows every citizen to express, his feelings at the polling booth, we would have no losers. We would just have dictatorial appointments in positions of political power.

To the winners in Tuesday's primaries we say 'Congratulations.'

To those who did not capture the majority of votes, we say 'Congratulations,' also. If it were not for competition among candidates for elected office, our system would not work.

As it is, even with its shortcomings, ours is still one of the greatest political systems devised by modern man.

Stock Price Opinions Split

NEW YORK (AP) — "As the stock market enters June, sometimes an uninspired month, opinions on the future of prices are split wide as the Grand Canyon.

Nothing new in this; it's been that way for 15 years, and the fact that the Dow Jones industrial average is no higher than it was in 1964 lends documentation. It tells of a split in opinions, a stalemate.

What is new is that some of those on either side of the split feel that we may not have to wait much longer for the proof of the pudding. That proof, they agree, is in the performance, not the prediction.

On one side of the great divide are those who say the market will now fall into the abyss. Included in the group are some huge institutional traders who, over recent years, have been shunning stocks.

On the other side they're ready to climb the mountain. By 1983 they foresee peaks twice as high as the recent industrial average, which closed last week at 836.37 points, about the same as in June 1964.

On either side they view the same economic probabilities as providing credibility. We are at a watershed, they say. We are headed toward recession. Our red-ink economy is like blood flowing.

Even when invested in stocks, the pension funds have done poorly. A review by A.G. Becker Inc. of 571 pension funds found that since 1964 only 22 of every 100 matched or exceeded the Standard and Poor's 500-stock index.

Blame is often placed on the timidity of portfolio managers, who under the relatively new "prudent man" law can be held responsible for investment decisions. They feel caution is more defensible than risk.

How timid have they been? A Federal Reserve count shows insurers and pension funds added less to their stock holdings last year than in any of the previous 11 years. Private pension funds used only 9 percent of available cash for U.S. stocks. Recently, some have invested abroad.

A perusal of investment letters suggests that as the economy declines so will the portfolio managers' already weak allegiance to stocks. No matter that prices might recover later. A manager saves his job now.

The stock market, they say, isn't for the timid and it isn't for the short-term. It's not to be viewed through a microscope; a telescope's the thing. A survey by Bache Halsey Stuart of 145 pension fund managers showed the average fund had 18 percent of assets in short-term securities. That alone amounts to nearly $50 billion that might become available.

Many billions more conceivably could come from other insurance company activities, from foundations, bank-administered trusts, mutual funds, school endowments, and individuals who now invest in real estate.

Bible Thought

He that trusteth in His own heart is a fool: but who walketh wisely, he shall be delivered. Proverbs 28:26.

It is silly to trust in the limited knowledge of man when we have the limitless knowledge of God available to us for the asking.

The Story Of

Calloway County

1822-1976

By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

Copyright, 1978

"We have today a state of unrest in our county. Violations of the law have resulted and which are charged to an organization of Association tobacco growers and who are termed Night Riders. This I deny. The number of men composing the band or bands has been variously estimated from 10 to 275. Every unlawful act committed within the county for the past several weeks has been charged to their commission. Let's take up all these cases, not omitting any, and before the limelight of public knowledge see if it can be rightly charged to an organized band of any character.

"In the beginning a number of letters were sent to various citizens of the county, just how many is not known. But is it not reasonable to suppose that one or two individuals are responsible for the letter writing as it is reasonable to charge it to an organization? What propagated and fostered this letter writing? I am going to give my solution. When Mr. H. H. Pace of the Kirksey section, who was among the first men to receive such a letter, made known the fact in a published card in the paper, acknowledged the receipt of such letter and making known his intentions to obey the dictates contained therein, I protested against giving his card publicity and in person explained to him my reasons. He would not yield and insisted upon its publication. I have Mr. Pace's original card in my possession and if I mistake not this card was written by County Judge Wells. As naturally as night follows darkness came other cards for publication, and the seed sown by Mr. Pace germinated.

"Others who received similar notices and midnight visitations came into my office with cards for publication. In these cards were contained statements regarding the number of men engaged in these admitted unlawful acts, and I repeatedly protested against giving such statements publication but those men who came to me plead for the privilege, declaring they were commanded to do these things. I sought to have them tell in their cards what they told me personally but they would not yield.

"Emboldened by the accomplishment of their purpose, conditions naturally grew to reach a state of distrust. In many instances these notices were sent by a friend to a friend and if no publicity were given, the source soon developed. This was illustrated by the independent prizes of Hazel. Messrs Brown and Palmer, who received warning notices upon two occasions, and giving the matter no attention the parties who jokingly sent the notices made known the fact.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: My wife and I are both retired on Social Security and we also receive our company's pension program. We are both over 65 so we are also on Medicare. Our financial situation is in very good shape, as we do not have to go into our savings account to meet our living expenses. The one thing that worries my wife and me is the possibility of a long sickness that will deplete our savings. The only insurance we now have is Medicare. Do you think we should buy some more health insurance to go with Medicare?

— G.H.
Heartline cannot advise you to buy extra insurance to supplement the Medicare program. However, we can give you some facts and information that can assist you in making the decision.

Since each person's financial picture is different, insurance needs also vary. There are many types of insurance policies on the market that have a great variety of coverages. Heartline does feel that Medicare is inadequate for most people over age 65, and we feel that some type of extra insurance is desirable. Helen Alpers, associate editor of Retirement Living says that this type of insurance "is not only desirable but essential for most retirees nowadays." An accident or sudden illness can quickly wipe out a person's savings. "Another reason for having this insurance is that health-care costs are headed for another doubling within the next six years and, as medical costs increase, Medicare coverage has been gradually decreasing.

Heartline has put together some facts and other pertinent information to assist you in your purchase of health insurance. For your free copy of this information, write to Heartline's Tips on Buying Health Insurance, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please send 25 cents to cover postage and handling.

HEARTLINE: Quite a few years ago I applied for and received a Social Security number. I got a number for a savings account I have. I never worked under Social Security because I was always a housewife. Now that my husband has retired I am drawing Social Security wife's benefits.

I just turned age 65 and became eligible for Medicare. When my Medicare card came, it had my name and my husband's Social Security number on it. Why is this? Have they made a mistake? — P.G.

No, your Medicare card should not have your Social Security number on it. It should have your husband's Social Security number on it. The number on your Medicare card (your husband's number plus the letter "B" is to be used only for your Medicare claims. This is done because you are eligible for Social Security and Medicare due to your husband's work record. This is only your Medicare claim number.

The Social Security number you were originally issued should be used for purposes of identification. Use your Medicare claim number only for making claims for coverage to Medicare.

Heartline has developed a simplified, easy-to-understand book on the whole Medicare program. To order, send $1.75 to Medicare Guidebook, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381.

HEARTLINE: I have an aunt who is 81 years old. She is senile and does not really know anything or anybody. My aunt needed someone to handle her financial affairs, so I became the representative payee for her Social Security benefits. What exactly will my duties be as representative payee? — C.H.

Your job will be to use your aunt's Social Security benefits in her best interest. To do this, you must keep yourself informed of what she needs. This is particularly important if your aunt does not live in the same household as you do. You must also report (for her) certain events which can affect the payment of her Social Security benefits and, upon request, you must be able to account for what you did with the benefits paid to you on behalf of your aunt.

Balloon Race In Record?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Where else would you learn about the Gordon Bennett balloon race, about the night the directors of the San Leandro Chamber of Commerce burst into weeping song, and about National Pest Control Month?

Nowhere else but in the Congressional Record.

The Record is a remarkable document. Its purpose is to provide a reasonably accurate transcript of House and Senate floor proceedings. The members get a chance to "correct" the transcript of their remarks. As a result some of the more outrageous comments have failed to appear.

Recent reforms have led to identification of speeches which were not actually delivered by the member.

But the Record is much more than floor debates. Members of Congress use it to pass on all sorts of information.

Thanks to Rep. Fortney H. (Pete) Stark Jr., D-Calif., readers of the Record have a little song to sing while waiting in gasoline lines.

Noting the long lines at gasoline stations in California, Stark said, "Inconvenience and disruption are the Californians' lot today."

He told how the board of directors of the San Leandro Chamber of Commerce reacted with this song, sung to the tune of "O Tannenbaum":

"Energy, oh energy
"How sadly we have used you
"Energy, scarce energy
"So badly we've abused you
"Those BTU's we dissipate
"The gas pumps closed, in line we wait

"Oh, energy, spent energy.
"Your loss takes getting used to.
"Energy, our energy
"Your cost has hit the ceiling.
"Energy, dear energy.
"You're not at all appealing.
"The Carter plan has come and gone.
"Inflation's here — where's Alfred Kahn?

"Oh, energy, steep energy.
"Your price still has us reeling."

Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif., used the Record to pass on the news that the Gordon Bennett balloon race will be revived next Saturday in Long Beach, Calif.

Eighteen balloons from the United States, Europe and Japan will participate in the 27th flying of the race, last held in 1938.

Be grateful to Rep. Thomas N. Kindness, R-Ohio, for passing on the text of President Carter's proclamation declaring June as National Pest Control Month.

And Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez reminded readers that May 16 was the 30th anniversary of the end of the Berlin Blockade and airlift with which the United States and its allies kept the city supplied after the Soviet Union cut off ground access.

Looking Back

10 Years Ago

Dr. Liza Spann will retire June 30 after more than 35 years as a member of the biology faculty at Murray State University and, since 1948, her name on a recommendation for admission to a medical or dental school has become a cherished endorsement.

"93 degrees recorded yesterday," from the column, "Seen & Heard Around Murray" by James C. Williams.

Jeannie Pat Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cy Miller of Murray, was graduated May 27 from the Mid State Medical Academy at Nashville, Tenn. She will now serve her internship at Western Baptist Hospital, Paducah.

Paul Ross, son of Joe A. Ross and the late Mrs. Marion Ross of Murray Route 2, is the recipient of the annual scholarship given by the Kirksey School Parent-Teacher Association.

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Oakley of Murray announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Jo, to Keith Michael Hinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith M. Hinton of Evansville, Ind.

20 Years Ago

A fireworks display will be a feature of the Murray Drive In Theatre tonight as a part of the Memorial Day festivities, according to Tommy Brown, theatre manager. Features showing will be "Cowboy" starring Glenn Ford and Jack Lemon and "Revolt At Big House."

The Vacation Church School of the First Methodist Church will begin June 1 in the church educational building. Leaders include Mrs. Ben Grogan, kindergarten; Mrs. Charlie Robertson, primary; Mrs. Charles Clark, junior. Harlan Hodges, basketball coach at the University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho, was presented a watch at the annual May Fete of the school. Hodges was one of the faculty members to be honored during the annual event. He has resigned to accept a position as superintendent of schools in Illinois. Hodges is a former basketball coach at Murray State College.

Joey Mikez was honored at a party in celebration of his third birthday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mikez.

Lettuces, two heads for 19 cents, is listed in the ad for Parker's Food Market this week.

30 Years Ago

With a collection of funds amounting to $2,396.42 in Calloway County, the 1949 March of Dimes campaign was declared a success by the chairman, Ed Settle, and his many co-workers here.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones of Murray Route 5 will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on May 31. Len Foster and His Eleven Piece Orchestra will leave Murray June 2 to start a tour that will take them through Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, and Tennessee. The band is being backed by the Tri-State Amusement Company.

Mrs. Clyde Downs presented the program on "Grandmother's Day and Mine" at the meeting of the Magazine Club held at the home of Mrs. Fred Gingles.

Betty Shroat of Elvins, Mo., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Shroat.

Showing at the Varsity Theatre is "The Walking Hills" starring Randolph Scott and Ella Raines.

Today

In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, May 30, the 150th day of 1979. There are 215 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1431, Joan of Arc was burned at the stake in Rouen, France.

On this date: In 1498, Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain on his third voyage to the New World.

In 1539, the Spanish explorer, Hernando de Soto, landed in Florida.

In 1883, reports that the new Brooklyn Bridge in New York was about to collapse created panic. Six people on the bridge were trampled to death.

In 1961, the dictator of the Dominican Republic, Rafael Trujillo, was assassinated.

In 1963, an estimated 10,000 people were killed in a windstorm and floods that struck East Pakistan.

In 1973, West Germany and Czechoslovakia agreed to establish normal relations, ending 35 years of hostility.

Ten years ago: Argentina was crippled by a general strike as workers walked off their jobs to protest police action against students.

Five years ago: Britain followed up on a general strike in Northern Ireland by announcing it would institute a form of direct rule.

One year ago: Cuba went before the United Nations to deny as absolutely false the U.S. charge that Cubans had a role in the recent rebel raid into the African country of Zaire.

Today's birthdays: Band leader Benny Goodman is 70 years old. Actor and voice specialist Mel Blanc is 49.

Thought for today: What we see depends mainly on what we look for — John Lubbock, English astronomer and mathematician, 1803-1865.

Long Campaign For Sloane Made It Difficult For Him To Give Up

By TOM EBLEN
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Harvey Sloane had campaigned longer than any other candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. And he was not about to give up easily.

Even in the early hours of this morning — as he sat in his hotel suite and heard newscasters say the western Kentucky returns were eroding his slim lead over opponent John Y. Brown Jr. — he was still confident. It was a confidence typical of Sloane.

When he began his campaign almost two years ago, Sloane was a former Louisville mayor with no other political experience, and no ties to the current state administration. But the celebrations of the crowd in the ballroom of Stouffer's Inn here last night showed how far he had come.

With a slim lead and more than half the vote in, Sloane appeared before the group of about 300 shortly after midnight. Dressed in the red chamois shirt that had come to symbolize his campaign, blue pants and his familiar walking shoes, the small, wiry physician was tossed about by the mob as he made his way to the podium.

"You and I have been campaigning for 18 months and walked 1,000 miles," he said between outbursts from the crowd. "Well, friends, we've got another 500 miles to go and we're not quitting until we get there."

Sloane and his wife, Kathy, then slowly made their way back through the crowd and returned to the more apprehensive atmosphere of their suite.

Sloane greeted friends who came to join the group of about 20 close supporters in the suite. But most of the time while the group kept up constant conversation, Sloane sat quietly in an armchair, staring at the television.

Sloane said the narrow margins on each side made the race "too volatile" to call. He said he had expected Carroll Hubbard's poor showing, but was very surprised that Terry McBrayer didn't do better. Sloane said he had thought McBrayer would take a much higher percentage of the vote, and said it might have an effect on his returns.

Soon after 1 a.m., as Sloane's slim lead was overtaken by Brown, the atmosphere in the suite became more serious. Supporters' faces straightened, and jokes and gladhanding stopped.

Dr. and Mrs. Sloane went into another room and met with several supporters, and soon after, aide David Armstrong left for the ballroom to make an announcement.

"Dr. Sloane is tired," Anderson told the group, which had diminished in both size and emotion. "But the campaign is still going on, and it will keep going on for some time. We'll take it up again first thing in the morning."

Confederate President's Birthday To Be June 1-3

FAIRVIEW, Ky. — The birthdate of the only president of the Confederate States of America, Jefferson Davis, will be celebrated June 1 to 3. Davis was born June 3, 1808, on a farm where Fairview now is located. He is commemorated there by the 351-foot-high Jefferson Davis monument. The Jefferson Davis Birthplace Association has scheduled a pageant of "scenes and songs" by the Pennyryle Players, a theater group, to be presented Friday and Saturday nights and at a luncheon and ball on Sunday. The association also is reproducing for sale a cookbook written by Davis' mother.

The celebration will be the first since Davis' civil rights were restored through legislation sponsored by Sen. Mark Hatfield, who has been invited to attend the three-day event.

Kitchen Receives Minor Damage After Fire Today

A fire in the Roy Mannis residence on Highway 1346 in the Dexter area did minor damage to the kitchen area, according to a Calloway County Fire-Rescue Squad spokesman.

The squad responded to the call at 7:54 a.m. today, the spokesman said. Two trucks and five men were at the scene for an hour, he added.

Balanced Budget To Be Focus, Not Taxes

Carter Says Cut Will Fall

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is joining leading congressional tax writers in predicting the traditional election-year tax cut will go by the wayside in 1980 as federal officials concentrate on trying to balance the national budget.

"I doubt very seriously that we'll have any tax cut in 1980," Carter said Tuesday at a news conference.

"If we have the option between substantial reductions in the deficit and controlling inflation on the one hand, and having tax reductions for the American people in an election year on the other, I would forego the tax reduction and insist upon controlling inflation and cutting the deficit."

Similar sentiments have been expressed by the two most influential tax experts on Capitol Hill — Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

"The top priority is to control expenditures and balance the budget," Ullman said last week. "That preempts any tax cut, unless the country is dropping into an obvious recession." Carter and administration economists insist no recession is on the horizon.

Long told a U.S. Chamber of Commerce seminar recently he also believes balancing the budget over the next two years should take priority over tax cuts. "I don't think a tax cut should keep us from balancing the budget," Long said.

The historic tendency is for Congress to approve tax cuts in election years, largely because it's a politically painless vote to cast. With inflation pushing taxpayers into ever-higher tax brackets, dollars flow into the federal treasury in ever-larger amounts. Legislators can thus vote to cut the tax rate every few years without reducing the funds available to pay for government programs.

That phenomenon, often called "taxflation" by government taxwriters, is working overtime now and could yet provide a way for Carter and Congress to balance the 1981 budget and approve a tax cut at the same time.

With federal tax receipts now pouring in in much greater amounts than previously estimated, some private and government economists have suggested a tax cut and balanced budget may both be possible by 1981.

Tax legislation applying to the 1981 fiscal year, beginning Oct. 1, 1980, would come next year — just in time for the fall elections.

On other matters Tuesday, Carter:

— Signed an executive order delegating some of his authority over gasoline sales to the nation's governors. The action authorizes governors to do such things as order odd-even rationing plans, regulate gas station operating hours and set minimum purchases. But the president warned that any plan making gasoline shortages less painful does nothing to solve "a long-term chronic problem in obtaining adequate energy supplies....It is necessary to stop aggravating the problem by blaming one another and by seeking out scapegoats," he said. "The fact is that the oil-producing countries are holding down supply while the rest of the world has increased demand."

— Said the United States will give Egypt and Israel a chance to resolve questions dealing with the Palestinians and other Israeli neighbors before offering any U.S. suggestions.

— Insisted that his anti-inflation program, including its wage and price guidelines, eventually will be successful in stemming inflation. But he acknowledged it probably will take a long time.

— Said he will wait until a new bi-racial government takes office in Rhodesia to decide whether to lift the U.S. trade embargo against the African nation.

— Reiterated his desire to eliminate nuclear weapons from the world and defended pending development of the new MX nuclear missile as necessary to maintain the military balance between the Soviet Union and the United States while negotiations aimed at reducing nuclear arms continue.

— Expressed confidence that Congress eventually will approve legislation implementing treaties turning the Panama Canal over to Panama. Failure to do so, he said, would leave the United States powerless to protect its interests after the transfer takes place.

BLACK DOLLS
DETROIT (AP) — A special exhibit of black dolls dating back to the 1830s was on display at the Detroit Historical Museum recently.

The 50 dolls in the exhibit were from the collection of Myla Perkins of Detroit, who began her hobby about 10 years ago.

Many were handmade around the turn of the century by a Georgia craftsman named Leo Moss, who was commissioned to make both black and white dolls. Quite a few of his black dolls are shown crying out, according to Mrs. Perkins, no one knows why.

16-Hour Operation Separates Siamese Twins In Salt Lake City

By RON BARKER
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Siamese twins Lisa and Elisa Hansen, joined at the tops of their heads since birth 19 months ago, were successfully separated today in pioneering surgery that lasted over 16 hours.

"It's done and it's a success. They're awake and crying," said John Dwan, spokesman for the University of Utah Medical Center. He said the twins were separated at 1:19 a.m. EDT.

He said the tops of the twins' heads were closed at 5:05 a.m. EDT. Two teams of surgeons, one for each twin, participated in the marathon operation.

Dwan said the twins were in "critical but stable condition" and their prognosis is "unknown."

The parents, David and Patricia Hansen of Ogden, were "very grateful and very tired," Dwan said. The Hansens and several close members of the family kept a vigil at the hospital during the surgery, which began at 12:40 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Dr. Stephen Minton, a spokesman for the doctors, said recently that such a separation has never before been completed successfully. Other attempts have ended in death or severe mental retardation, he said.

Minton has been unavailable for comment since the operation began.

He has described Lisa and Elisa as healthy and perfectly normal, physically and mentally, except for their being joined together.

The parents, David and Patricia Hansen of Ogden, and other family members were in seclusion at the hospital and were being kept informed of developments, said Dwan.

Doctors were working more slowly than expected, Dwan said, because they had encountered scar tissue from four previous operations which set the stage for the attempt at final separation.

He also said doctors had estimated the operation could take 20 hours or more and that in a prolonged operation the ability of the girls to withstand surgery becomes an issue.

"They (the doctors) have been very careful to outline the risks," he said. "There is always the possibility that one or the other may not survive."

He also said doctors had been slowed by the girls' rapid growth.

Asked whether that meant additional shared blood vessels might have been encountered, Dwan replied, "I assume so."

Doctors have said the girls' brains are separate, although touching. They have shared veins carrying blood away from their brains, and their skulls are fused together, but there is a slight indentation where Lisa's head stops and Elisa's begins.

Surgeons have been working in teams, Dwan said, because of the length of the operation. Two surgical teams are necessary, he said, because when separation is completed, a full group of doctors and nurses must be available for each child.

In the operation's early stages, as many as 11 doctors were in the operating room at one time, Dwan said.

The doctors performing the operation have asked not to be identified, Dwan said, but the team includes four neurosurgeons.

Poinsettia Plants Needed By Seniors At The Greenhouse

The Senior Citizens Greenhouse, located at St. John's Episcopal Church, 1820 West Main Street, Murray, has asked for donations of poinsettia plants. These will be taken at the greenhouse through Wednesday, June 6, according to a spokesman for the group.

Any one having a plant at home to donate may bring it to the greenhouse during opening hours, Monday and Tuesday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon, and Thursday afternoons from 1 to 3 p.m.

Persons having plants to donate to unable to bring them to the greenhouse may call Kathie Gentry at 759-1991.

The greenhouse still has some nice vegetable plants, petunias, begonias, and other plants. Purchases can be made during the opening hours of the greenhouse.

The Breaks

They're What Murray High Needs To Capture State Title, Says Miller

By TONY WILSON
Sports Editor

OWENSBORO, Ky. — He's endured 10 more losses than last season, but Charles Atkins feels his Paintsville High School team, which meets Murray High Thursday in the first round of the high school baseball state tournament, is far more prepared than last year.

"We were just glad to be there last year, to be frank," said Atkins, the Paintsville coach, by phone this morning. "This year, we think we have a good chance to win it all."

About this time a year ago, Paintsville was unbeaten through 35 games heading into the state tourney, which involves four teams. But the Tigers lost to Elizabethtown 3-0 in the first round.

And Atkins wasn't surprised in the least to see his squad easily defeat Laurel County, 30-2 before yesterday, 8-2 in the Somerset Sectional final.

Paintsville, 26-11, and Murray will square off at 4 p.m. at Owensboro's Chautauqua Park, followed by Durrett — the North Hardin Sectional winner — against the Lexington Sectional champ, which will be either Shelby County or Conner. That championship game was today.

Shelby County ousted tournament favorite Lexington Lafayette 6-5, while Conner stopped Walton-Verona 5-2. The state title game will be 6 p.m. Thursday.

"You've got to get the breaks in state tournament play," says Murray High Coach Cary Miller. "My seniors have dedicated this year to reaching the state tournament, so now they are where they want to be."

Murray is riding a 16-game winning streak and stands 18-1 on the year. Its only loss came in the second game of a doubleheader to Cairo, Ill., High School.

Brad Taylor, 7-0, will start for Murray, while Atkins will go with either junior righthander Gary Wells or senior southpaw Brian Allen. Wells won tournament games in the district and regional events before stopping Ashland 2-1 in the first game of sectional play, while Allen tossed a one-hitter in the finals of the regional to beat Pikeville.

Atkins feels his Paintsville team's strength lies in its pitching and defense. "In our seven tournament games, we've outscored the opposition 65-10, so we feel like if we can score we can win."

Only four of the 21 Paintsville players are seniors, despite a wealth of experience on the squad. "We only have 200 students in the upper three grades, so we usually start the kids out in baseball early," said Atkins. His four seniors have five years of varsity experience.

Second baseman Thomas Kendall has held the hottest bat for Murray in its six tournament games. The senior has 10 hits in 20 at bats for a .500 average and also lead the squad in runs batted in with nine.

Taylor has hit at a .471 clip (8 for 17), while designated hitter Tony Herndon has eight hits in 21 trips for a .381 mark.

Taylor and Herndon have five RBIs each, while Bill Milton, Alan Gibbs and Scott Hill have four each. Bruce Taylor and Gibbs have scored eight times each to lead the Tigers in that department.

As a team, Murray is batting at a .301 clip (58 for 190) in tourney play and has outscored its opponents 50-13. Taylor and Gibbs have alternated starts on the mound, and only once has an opponent scored more than two runs (Calloway County lost 14-6) in a single contest.

"I don't know much about Murray, but anyone that makes it to the state tournament has to be a good club," said Atkins. "The team that plays with the fewest mistakes will be the winner."

Admission to the event is $2 for adults and $1 for children. The Murray-Paintsville clash will be broadcast over WSJP-AM radio.

The Reds' Chip Atkins (40) chases the Twins' Aaron Barrett in a rundown during last night's Kentucky League baseball game. Barrett was out, but his team won 9-5. In background is Eric Grogan. (youth league baseball roundup, page 10-A).

NCAA Track Meet Set To Start; Four Racer Runners To Compete

Portions From Associated Press

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Greg Foster is the defending champion and will have the home-state crowd behind him, but Renaldo Nehemiah has momentum and the world record going into their next confrontation in the 110-meter hurdles at the NCAA Track and Field Championships.

Foster, a 20-year-old junior at UCLA from Maywood, Ill., and the 19-year-old Nehemiah, a University of Maryland sophomore from Scotch Plains, N.J., have met a total of 13 times over the past two years both indoors and outdoors. The renewal of their rivalry begins with the trials Thursday.

Nehemiah has 11 victories including a world record clocking of 13.00 seconds May 6 at Los Angeles in a dual against Foster and the previous world record holder Alejandro Casanas of Cuba.

The versatile Nehemiah, who also has shown world-class ability in the sprints and relays this year and was an outstanding long jumper in high school, first broke Casanas' world mark of 13.21 with a time of 13.16 April 14 at San Jose, Calif. in his first outdoor meet of the season.

He also ran the fastest handtimed 110-meter hurdles race in history May 11 at Kingston, Jamaica, clocking 12.8. But handtimed events are not recognized for world records by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, the governing body of track and field.

"It's not the power in the legs that counts," said Nehemiah, "I have more power in my upper body. That's where you need it. The legs go where the arms take them."

"Yes, I'm stronger than last year, two times stronger. A lot of it is age. I can finish 110 meters now and be hardly puffing. Last year, I was tired."

And he added, "Under 13 (seconds) definitely is within reach."

Murray State will have five members of its "English Brigade" competing, including two who earned All-America status during the indoor season.

David Warren and Jerry Odlin, who finished in the top 10 in indoor competition, will compete in the 1,500 meters and the 5,000 meters, respectively, though both qualified for two events — Warren also in the 800 and Odlin in the 10,000.

Other Racers and the events in which they will compete are Richard Charleston, 3,000 meter steeplechase; and David Rafferty and Pat Chimes, 1,500 meters.

While Nehemiah has been shattering all his opposition this year, Foster also has been running extremely well, solidifying his position as the world's No. 2 hurdler behind his arch-rival from Maryland.

The bespectacled Foster — who is rated better than Nehemiah by Casanas — won the NCAA title last year, at Eugene, Ore., in 13.22, an American record at the time. To win, he had to overcome Nehemiah, the runner up at 13.27, an American junior mark.

The victory, however, was not very satisfying to Foster. Ten yards after the finish line, he swerved to avoid a photographer and his "trick-knee" gave way. He then had to be scratched from UCLA's mile relay semifinal and participation in the national AAU championships a week later at his school's home track in Los Angeles.

Now, Foster, a former Illinois prep star, is back in his hometown and hoping to defend his title in the 58th NCAA meet at the University of Illinois.

After Thursday's trials in the 110-meter hurdles the semifinals and finals will be held Friday. The Foster-Nehemiah duel is expected to be another classic match-up enroute to their biggest showdown of all — the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

Foster is one of nine individual defending champions back from last year. The others are hammer thrower Scott Neilson of Washington; 3,000-meter steeple chaser Henry Rono of Washington State; high-jumper Franklin Jacobs of Fairleigh Dickinson; 5,000-meter runner Rudy Chapa of Oregon; 400-meter hurdler James Walker of Auburn; 400-meter sprinter Billy Mullins of the University of Southern California; shot putter Dave Laut of UCLA; and 10,000-meter runner Michael Musyoki of Texas-El Paso.

In addition, Auburn's Harvey Gance, the 1976 champion at 100 and 200 meters and the 100 winner in 1977, is competing again along with 1977 title holders Kyle Arney of Arizona State (high jump), Svein Walvik of Texas-El Paso (discus) and Tito Steiner of Brigham Young University (decathlon).

Last year's team champion was Southern California for the 27th time in meet history. But the Trojans are not expected to repeat. This year's co-favorites in the meet that ends Saturday are Oregon and Texas-El Paso.

Decision... Sampson To State Choice Thursday

By the Associated Press

HARRISONBURG, Va. — Ralph Sampson, the 7-foot-3½-inch basketball star who is the hottest prospect left on the recruiting market, will announce Thursday where he'll play college ball — although he hasn't decided on his choice yet.

Roger Bergey, who coached the star-center at Harrisonburg High School, said Tuesday that Sampson will hold a news conference at 7 p.m. Thursday in the high school gymnasium to reveal his plans.

Bergey said Sampson apparently has not yet reached a final decision, "but he's pretty close."

Sampson attended an athletic banquet at Strasburg High School Tuesday night and remained vague about his college plans.

He made no reference to the Thursday night news conference and said only that he'd make up his mind "in a week or two."

Sampson has said he has narrowed his list of schools to four — North Carolina, Virginia, Virginia Tech and Kentucky. He has visited only those four schools and East Tennessee State.

Bergey said Sampson plans to notify the college he chooses only a short time before the news conference and that the chosen coach isn't expected to be here for the announcement. At least two of the four coaches plan to be on hand, however.

Both Virginia Tech coach Charles Moir and Virginia coach Terry Holland said they would be in Harrisonburg Thursday. They said they had been told about the news conference but had been given no indication as to Sampson's final choice.

Sampson averaged nearly 30 points and 20 rebounds a game during his senior year at Harrisonburg High while leading the team to a 26-0 record and a second straight Virginia Group AA scholastic championship. The team was 25-2 in 1977-78 with Sampson in a starring role.

Last month, Sampson became the only non-collegian named to the 12-man team that will represent the United States in the Pan-American Games this summer.

Speculation that he might attend Maryland has been rife because Bergey, who is very close to Sampson, is considering accepting an assistant coaching job on the staff of Maryland coach Lefty Driesell.

Memphis State Awaits News

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The National Collegiate Athletic Association will announce within several days its sanctions against Memphis State University for recruiting violations.

MSU president Dr. Billy M. Jones cleared the way for the NCAA's formal statement when he announced Tuesday the university will not appeal the sanctions that came after a 30-month investigation of Tiger recruiting practices.

"We have officially notified the NCAA that Memphis State University will make no formal appeal of the judgments reached on the findings of the investigation which culminated in a hearing at Denver," Jones said.

Jones received a certified letter May 21 outlining violations uncovered during the inquiry and proposed sanctions. The university had 15 days to appeal.

Orioles Break Loss Streak To Royals; Coopers Hits 2 HRs

By the Associated Press

The Baltimore Orioles survived a 10-count and flattened the Kansas City Royals Tuesday night.

One night earlier, the Orioles dropped their 10th consecutive game in Royals Stadium. But Tuesday evening, Ken Singleton, Rich Dauer, Gary Roenicke and Lee May unloaded haymakers and the Orioles pounded the Royals 8-1, their first success in Kansas City since June 4, 1977.

Toronto Blue Jays 9-8 and the Chicago White Sox shaded the Cleveland Indians 4-2. The Oakland-Minnesota and Boston-Texas games were rained out.

Baltimore ace Jim Palmer, making his first start in 10 days since complaining of soreness in his right arm, retired 13 Kansas City batters in a row between the first inning and the fifth. He allowed five hits, struck out three, and walked two before Tippy Martinez relieved in the eighth when Palmer's forearm tightened again.

Cecil Cooper slammed a pair of bases-empty homers and Robin Yount added a two-run double as Milwaukee handed winless Catfish Hunter his fourth setback. Cooper's 11th homer of the year and second of the game broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning and three infield hits and Yount's double, which right fielder Reggie Jackson misplayed, helped the Brewers to three more runs in the seventh. Milwaukee's Moose Haas scattered seven hits, including home runs by Jackson and Graig Nettles.

In other American League action, the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the New York Yankees 7-3, the California Angels downed the Seattle Mariners 6-4, the Detroit Tigers edged the

A Sense Of Nostalgia

Quail Hollow To Host Kemper For Final Time

By the Associated Press
CHARLOTTE, N.C. — There's a certain sense of nostalgia to this week's $50,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

It is the last to be played at the 7,160-yard, par-72 Quail Hollow Country Club. Despite an extremely successful 11-year run in Charlotte, the tournament next year will be moved to the famed Congressional Country Club in Bethesda, Md.

It isn't unusual for tournaments and or cities to disappear from the PGA Tour schedule. In the last 10 years, more than two dozen events have dropped off the circuit.

But there was a difference. In those cases, the tournaments had problems of one type or another. They'd be played this year, then quietly drop off the schedule the next, without fanfare or announcements. They'd just be gone.

In this case, Charlotte has provided an adequate golf course, a strong local organization, a good tournament and some of the larger, more enthusiastic galleries on the tour. But the tournament will be played here for the last time.

The move was made on the recommendation of PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman — who has long desired to have a tour event in his hometown — and with the concurrence of executives of the sponsoring insurance company.

Beman said the move was made to take the tour to major areas — in this case, the Washington-Baltimore market — which are not now on the schedule. Beman also was concerned with eliminating events in areas which have a heavy concentration of tournaments. At the moment, North Carolina is host to three PGA Tour events.

Probably the greatest individual loser in the change is Tom Weiskopf, who has shown a certain affinity for the gently rolling course. He's won three of his last 11 titles at Quail Hollow and must be considered a major threat again in the event that gets started Thursday.

With Tom Watson, the tour's only four-time winner this year, taking a break, the other major standouts in the field of 150 include defending champion Andy Bean, U.S. Open king Andy North, Jerry Pate, Lon Hinkle, Al Geiberger and Lanny Wadkins, a two-time winner this season and No. 2 on the money-winning list behind Watson.

Of more than sentimental interest is 49-year-old Arnold Palmer, who owns a home on the course and had his best showing in years here last year.

He led through two rounds and had a shot at his first victory in five years until his momentum was broken by a thunderstorm interruption. He never recovered.

Palmer was extremely enthusiastic about his chance this year, too. "I was hitting the ball in practice better than I have in years," he said. "Now if I can just keep it together for a while."

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS.

'Sonics Edge Bullets 114-112, Can Capture NBA Title Friday

By the Associated Press
SEATTLE — Guards Gus Williams and Dennis Johnson combined for 68 points, including eight in overtime Tuesday night, as the Seattle SuperSonics outlasted the Washington Bullets 114-112 to take a 3-1 lead in the National Basketball Association's playoff finals.

The SuperSonics can wrap up the first championship in their 12-year history with a victory Friday night in Landover, Md. If Washington wins that game, the best-of-seven series would come back for Game Six Sunday at the Coliseum, where Seattle has won 25 of its last 26 outings.

The lone exception was Washington's 105-99 triumph in the deciding seventh game of last year's title series.

Wes Unseld's flip shot with 18 seconds to play in regulation had given Washington a 104-104 tie and sent the game into overtime. But Williams and Dennis Johnson wasted no time taking control in the five-minute extra period.

Dennis Johnson scored on an offensive rebound and Williams hit a breakaway layup to give Seattle a four-point lead. After Charles Johnson hit a basket for Washington, Dennis Johnson responded with a jumper from the foul line and Williams sank two free throws to put Seattle in front 112-106 with 2:08 to play in overtime.

Baskets by Tom Henderson and Kevin Grevey brought the Bullets within two, but a pair of free throws by Jack Sikma with 39 seconds to play gave the Sonics some breathing room.

Little-used veteran Phil Chenier scored from the right corner for Washington, his first basket of the final series, and Sikma missed a jumper to give the Bullets one last chance with six seconds to play.

After a time out, Grevey tried to drive down the right side but found his path blocked by Dennis Johnson. He threw up an off-balance 18-foot shot that missed everything and Sikma grabbed the ball as the final buzzer sounded.

Williams led the Sonics, as he has in each game of this series, with 36 points: Dennis Johnson scored 32 and Sikma added 20 points and 17 rebounds.

Elvin Hayes, Charles Johnson and Grevey led the Bullets with 18 points apiece.

It was a rugged, almost brutal game, with a host of players on each team getting in foul trouble. By the end, the Bullets' entire front line of Hayes, Unseld and Bobby Dandridge had fouled out.

Unknown Champion

Larry Holmes Caught In Boxing Limbo

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
The best heavyweight fist fighter in the world stands in an isolated corner, talking in subdued tones with a couple of newsmen and a handful of the curious.

Meanwhile, there is a shoving, six-deep mob around a handsome, mustachioed Californian of Mexican extraction, Carlos Palomino, a former welterweight champion, and, outside on the patio, a pack of ring buffs struggles to get within conversation distance of Jersey Joe Walcott, a colorful throwback to the Joe Louis era.

For Larry Holmes, unbeaten in 30 bouts and holder of half of the world heavyweight boxing crown but rightful owner of all, it's a lonely, frustrating existence.

"Until that man officially retires or fights me, nobody will know I exist," says Holmes, who accepts his fate placidly. "I have fought everybody who is willing to fight me. What else do they want me to do?"

Holmes can walk the length of Fifth Avenue without once being asked for an autograph. It's the same when he strolls the Champs Elysees in Paris or pauses to admire the scenery on London's Trafalgar Square.

He is the forgotten champion — boxing's "Mr. X." "I have the same trouble at home," Holmes said at a press conference Tuesday aimed at hyping his June 22 bout in Madison Square Garden against a little-known ex-Marine, Mike "Hercules" Weaver.

"I go home and ask my 11-year-old daughter, Missy, if I am her champion," Holmes said.

"She says, 'Yes, daddy.' I ask her, 'Am I the best fighter in the world?' She says, 'I don't know, daddy.' I ask her, 'Can I beat Muhammad Ali?' She replies, 'I don't know, daddy.'"

Holmes, recognized as world champion by the World Boxing Council, is risking his $3 million purse for a scheduled September fight against tough Earnie Shavers by going against a fighter who has lost eight times and is No. 8 among heavyweight challengers.

He will be fighting Weaver for practically nothing, repaying Promoter Don King, who befriended him in his earlier struggle days.

"When I came up, I couldn't get on TV," Holmes said. "They said I wasn't good enough. Now TV doesn't want me because they say I am too good. Once ABC told me they'd use my fight if I scored a knockout. I won by decision. They never took the film out of the can."

Holmes, 29, a one-time truck driver, is an impressive gladiator — 6 feet, 3 inches tall, 214 pounds with massive neck, shoulder and arms. He is reminiscent of Ali in his speed and ring finesse. Tender knuckles keep him from being a murderous puncher.

But he is unquestionably the finest heavyweight now in action and a man destined to rule the division for perhaps another five years — not, let us hope, in virtual anonymity.

"I can't get famous for not going into the service or for becoming a Muslim," the modest, low-key champ said. "All was known for what he was and what he did and all the people around him. I'm not Muhammad Ali. I don't expect to be. I came into the world as Larry Holmes. I will go out as Larry Holmes."

SEC ADs Approve Plan To Change Tourney Format

BILOXI, Miss. — Basketball teams, which finish first and second in the Southeastern Conference's regular season standings will now be required to appear more often in the SEC's postseason championship tournament.

A new tournament structure approved Tuesday by SEC athletic directors revokes the bye to the tournament semifinals given to the 1-2 regular season finishers. They and the other four top regular season finishers, get only a first round bye.

The new schedule pairs the No. 7 seed against the No. 10 regular season finisher and No. 8 against No. 9 in the tournament's first round. The next day, the top-seeded team meets the 8 vs. 9 winner and the second-seeded team plays the 7-10 winner.

Athletic directors also changed football scheduling, but the new arrangement won't take effect until 1988. It creates a 5-2 plan in which each SEC team plays its five common opponents and two others on a rotating basis.

Under the new system, each SEC football team would play every other conference team every two years, and would play home and home games against all SEC teams every four years.

"The presidents of the league's universities have already approved this concept," said Commissioner Boyd McWhorter.

Athletic directors also agreed to a request from football coaches that they sponsor legislation at the next NCAA meeting to let the SEC revert back to its more flexible formula of allocating 60 athletic scholarships every two years.

Parker Leads Pittsburgh Romp

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Dave Parker is starting to shake out of his "slump." You know it when he tells you so.

The Pittsburgh Pirate star never hesitates to blow his own horn, as many know, and that's exactly what he did Tuesday night after helping his team blow out the Chicago Cubs 8-0.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

"It's about time for me to put something together," said Parker after hitting two doubles and a home run and driving in three runs.

In the other NL games Tuesday night, the Montreal Expos routed the Philadelphia Phillies 9-0; the Houston Astros nipped the Cincinnati Reds 2-1; the New York Mets turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2; the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the San Francisco Giants 6-5 and the San Diego Padres swept a double-header from the Atlanta Braves, 6-3 and 3-2.

Pittsburgh took a 2-0 lead in the first inning with the aid of a throwing error by pitcher Ken Holtzman and a run-scoring single by Willie Stargell. Phil Garner led off the Pirate second with his third homer. Parker clouted his seventh homer with two out in the seventh, and then doubled in two more runs in a four-run Pirate eighth.

Don Robinson and Grant Jackson combined on a five-hitter for the Pirates, who turned in only their second shutout this season.

Expos 9, Phillies 0

Ellis Valentine's three-run homer capped a five-run, fifth inning and Steve Rogers pitched a six-hitter as Mon-real beat Philadelphia. Rogers triggered the fifth-inning outburst with a lead-off single and Warren Cromartie later delivered a two-run double before Val's fifth homer of the season.

The Expos had provided Rogers with a 2-0 lead in the second inning when Chris Speier doubled in two runs. Perez and Valentine both hit RBI doubles in the seventh to stretch the Montreal lead to 9-0.

Astros 2, Reds 1

Pinch-hitter Denny Walling's run-scoring single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning led Houston over Cincinnati. Craig Reynolds and Cesar Cedeño started the decisive Houston ninth with singles off loser Paul Moskau. Reliever Doug Bair then intentionally walked Jose Cruz to load the bases, setting the stage for Walling's winning hit. Randy Niemann, recalled from the minors earlier this month, scattered eight hits for his first major league victory.

Mets 6, Cardinals 2

John Stearns and Steve Henderson belted run-scoring doubles to highlight a four-run rally in the seventh inning and lead New York over St. Louis. Lee Mazzilli's double, one of 14 New York hits, triggered the New York uprising off St. Louis right-hander Pete Vuckovich. An inning later, the Mets added an insurance run on two singles and Richie Hebner's sacrifice fly in support of Pat Zachry, 4-0, who yielded nine hits in 71-3 innings.

Dodgers 6, Giants 5

Dusty Baker's fly ball single to deep center field drove in the winning run as Los Angeles rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to defeat San Francisco.

Padres 6-3, Braves 3-2

Dave Winfield homered and Gene Tenace cracked a two-run triple to help Gaylord Perry record his 271st career victory as San Diego defeated Atlanta in the first game of their double-header.

The Padres completed their sweep as Ozzie Smith's run-scoring single broke a tie in the eighth inning.

Federal Inspectors And Airline Officials Continue Study Of DC-10 Crash

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal inspectors and American Airlines officials — apparently not satisfied the loss of one engine was the key factor in the nation's worst air crash — plan to program a computer to see how the DC-10 jumbo jet would react if its hydraulic system was damaged.

The National Transportation Safety Board and the airline said Tuesday they are trying to determine whether the falling engine damaged other parts of the plane — such as the hydraulic system that provides power to critical controls on the plane's wings and tail.

American officials said they plan to program a computerized aircraft simulator at the airline's training center in Dallas to learn how the jumbo jet would have reacted if two of its three hydraulic systems failed when the engine fell off. The simulator is used to train pilots.

"We are looking into the hydraulic system of that aircraft and tracing the trajectory of that engine when it came off the top of that wing. We want to know what happened — what kind of damage might have been done to the wing," said Bob Buckhorn, a board spokesman.

The hydraulic system provides power to the ailerons, flaps, elevators, rudder and spoilers — devices that help control the plane. Buckhorn added that the safety board won't know what caused the crash for several months.

Investigators say Flight 191's trouble began Friday when a 3-inch bolt in the left wing engine assembly cracked on takeoff and the engine tore away from the jumbo jet.

Tryouts for the Kentucky Educational Television production of "This Other Eden," a five-hour documentary drama on the people and events that formed the state of Kentucky, were held Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium of the Murray-Calloway County Public Library.

According to Luralyn Lahr, associate producer of the show, the auditions were on the basis of age and looks. The roles are for a crowd and there are no speaking parts, Lahr said. A mixture of 35 people is

Martha Layne Collins Named Demo's Lt. Governor Candidate

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Martha Layne Collins has taken the first giant step toward becoming Kentucky's second woman lieutenant governor by defeating five male rivals in the Democratic primary.

With unofficial returns almost complete, Mrs. Collins, who was elected state Supreme Court clerk in 1975, held a 4,500-vote lead over Bill Cox, a Madisonville trucking executive who had been regarded as the frontrunner until a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Collins, of Versailles, had launched a strong last-minute telephone campaign designed to generate a large women's vote at the very time that Cox became embroiled in controversy with another rival.

"We had a game plan and it didn't vary," Mrs. Collins said today in a telephone interview. "I feel that steady campaign is indicative of the leadership I will provide for the state."

Mrs. Collins, a 42-year-old former beauty queen, has advocated close cooperation between a lieutenant governor and governor.

She views the No. 2 post, which has been largely stripped of its duties, as a kind of ombudsman duty and funnel for dealing with problems that cannot be handled by a busy governor.

Mrs. Collins' Republican rival in November will be Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Rogers of Somerset, who overcame token opposition in Tuesday's voting.

Cox had seemed to be leading the Democratic pack with a noisy campaign — he designated his followers as "Cox's Army" — but was jolted earlier this month when one rival, James Vernon of Corbin, contended he was part of an FBI investigation of alleged wrongdoing in state government.

Third in the field was former Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach, the last entry who took an early lead on the basis of returns from the populous

Martha Layne Collins
Louisville area.

But Hollenbach's strength dissipated in non-metropolitan areas and he emerged with only 20 percent of the total vote.

State Sen. Joe Prather of Hardin County was a close fourth with 19 percent. The other major contestants, Vernon and Richard Lewis of Benton, lagged far behind.

The race had started calmly, but broke into dissension when Vernon made his accusation about Cox on a statewide televised panel.

Cox subsequently filed a slander suit and both candidates have given court depositions.

The defeat of Cox, who had been an intimate member of Gov. Julian Carroll's circle, is another blow to the state administration, whose preferred gubernatorial candidate, Terry McBrayer, lost to John Y. Brown Jr. Mrs. Collins portrayed herself as a kind of peacemaker between the Democratic factions loosely led by Carroll and by Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., who was Carroll's predecessor. She was supported openly by J.R. Miller, a mentor of Ford and a former state Democratic chairman.

Cox had resigned as federal highway administrator to make the race and spent by far the most money on it, receiving $485,000 in contributions through last month compared to $100,000 for Mrs. Collins.

Miss Kentucky-World Set At Murray State

The Miss Kentucky World-America Pageant has made final plans for the pageant to be held at Murray State University, Murray, on Saturday, June 9, at 7:30 p.m., in the University Auditorium.

Thirty-two girls from across the state of Kentucky will be participating in the State Contest which is the state preliminary to Miss World-America Pageant to be held in September.

Contestants will be judged on facial beauty, poise-personality, swim suit and formal competition. There will be no talent competition.

Miss World-America will compete in the Miss World Pageant to be held in London, England in November. Some of the gifts Miss Kentucky World-America will receive will be a diamond necklace, expense paid trip with round trip flight to National Finals, $100 cash, formal, Givency Sports outfit, Samsonite luggage, Hyatt Regency Weekend, crown, banner, trophy and other gifts.

Tickets will be on sale at the door during pageant night, according to Connie Clark, state director.

MSU Gets Grant

A two-year grant of $29,310 has been awarded to the Hancock Biological Station of Murray State University to evaluate the effect of fish attractors on the continuing availability of crapple and largemouth bass in Lake Barkley and Kentucky Lake.

Funding by the Kentucky Water Resources Research Institute of the University of Kentucky will begin Oct. 1. The project was initiated this spring with the cooperation of the fisheries management staff of the Tennessee Valley Authority's Land Between The Lakes (LBL).

Dr. Don Johnson, director of the biological station and project designer, and Dr. Tom Forsythe, fisheries biologist at LBL, will serve as project supervisors.

Larry Kips, a Murray State graduate student and TVA intern, has the primary responsibility for collection and analysis of data. Other members of the research team are Murray State graduate students Gary Jenkins and Gary Rice.

They are investigating the types of fishes that congregate at artificial covers and studying their sizes and growth rates, reproductive success, and replacement rates following removal by fishermen. Position and depth of the attractors is also being evaluated.

Johnson said the results of the studies will be important in the installation of additional attractors and may also influence future management of spring water levels in the reservoirs.

He emphasized that the recovery of tagged fish is a critical part of the research and will be dependent on the cooperation and support of game fishermen.

Brown...

expenditures — at least $1 million on the record through last month — and Gov. Julian Carroll's purported use of administration muscle against him. Mrs. Stovall, at 60 the oldest major candidate, had hoped to become Kentucky's first woman governor, as she had become the first lieutenant governor.

Brown may have changed the methods of Kentucky politics by his unique late entry and drive, which bypassed the customary courthouse and precinct structure in favor of recruiting thousands of volunteers through a Jaycee-type operation and setting up a massive telephone bank.

Essentially, Brown relied on quick coverage of the electorate through a media blitz and helicopter tours. But his aides said even this approach could not have been successful without the millionaire's charisma and prior name recognition.

Brown told enthusiastic supporters at his election headquarters that Gov. Julian Carroll had assured him of support in the fall, as had the other four candidates.

But he still struck an anti-administration note in commenting that an era of "blacktop roads" and "personal service contracts" to political favorites was at an end.

Brown's platform was not much different than most of his rivals, focusing on improvements in education, renovations for secondary roads and limits on state spending and taxes.

But increasingly in the final weeks he lambasted Carroll's administration and emphasized that the people were "tired of politicians," citing elections of governors in other states.

In turn, the alarmed McBrayer camp characterized Brown as a high stakes gambler with a jet set image and no real roots in Kentucky.

"For the first time, this has been truly a people's campaign," Brown said today, claiming that not a single major politician had contacted him during his campaign.

And on a personal note, he told of "crying myself to sleep many a night" when his father, John Y. Brown Sr., constantly lost various statewide campaigns "against the machine" decades ago.

The elder Brown was instrumental in helping push his son into a race already crowded with hopefuls who viewed the Carroll administration as unpopular and therefore vulnerable.

"In November, we're all going to be winners against Louie Nunn," the Democratic nominee said.

Nunn, 55, was elected governor in 1967 on his second attempt at the office, and was defeated for U.S. senator in 1972.

Weisenberger a landslide victory in Calloway County in the First District state senate race. Weisenberger, with 3,321 votes, led Forrest Burchard who garnered 825 in Calloway. In the six county district, which also includes Graves, Carlisle, Hickman, Fulton and Marshall counties, Weisenberger received 12,811 to Burchard's 3,700.

Locally, voters went with U.S. Rep. Carroll Hubbard in the Democratic gubernatorial race. Hubbard, of Mayfield, led in Calloway County with 2,417 votes to John Y. Brown Jr.'s 1,904. Brown won statewide with 28 percent of the vote in the nine-candidate race.

Gubernatorial candidates following Hubbard and Brown in local voting were: Terry McBrayer, 1,332; Harvey Sloane, 640; Thelma Stovall, 537; George Atkins, 33; Doris Binion, 14; Lyle L. Willis, 7; and John J. Weikel, 4. In the Republican gubernatorial race, local voters went along with statewide results in electing Louie B. Nunn as the Republican nominee. Nunn received 143 local votes and 79 percent of the total statewide vote.

Following Nunn in local voting were: Ray B. White, 10; Elmer Begley Jr., 5; and Thurman Hamlin, 1.

In the Democratic lieutenant governor's race, Richard H. Lewis of Benton carried the local vote with 2,826. However, Lewis lost statewide to Martha Layne Collins who received 22 percent of the vote.

Following Lewis in local voting were: William "Bill" Cox, 1,141; Collins, 1,018; Todd Hollenbach, 518; Joe Prather, 221; Jim Vernon, 69; and Chalmers T. Rowland, 20.

The local Republican lieutenant governor choice was Harold Rogers with 68 votes. Rogers led statewide with 67 percent of the vote. Following Rogers locally was Bob Bersky with 39 votes and Granville Thomas with 14 votes.

In a statewide race that attracted much local attention, Mancel Vinson, alumni affairs director at Murray State University, was the overwhelming choice of Calloway Countyans for agriculture commissioner. Vinson, who received 15 percent of the statewide vote, got 3,962 votes locally. Vinson lost the race to Alben W. Barkley II, who received 27 percent of the statewide vote.

Following Vinson in local voting were Barkley, 787; Edward G. Brown, 336; Ken Hall, 132; Don E. Kenady, 94; Melvin D. Martin, 41; Woodrow Wilson, 39; and Fred Waters, 37.

Roy C. Gray Jr. won the Republican agriculture commissioner race locally with 73 votes. He carried the state with 51 percent of the total. Following Gray in local voting were Tommy Klein with 28 votes and Clyde Simeck with 12 votes.

Everyone Said It Was Too Late For Brown To Enter Gubernatorial Race

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After almost two claustrophobic days in a Lexington motel room and about 100 telephone calls to just about every politician in Kentucky, John Y. Brown Jr., his wife Phyllis and adviser Larry Townsend emerged tired and discouraged on March 24.

Without exception, everyone had said it was either too late or hopeless for the multimillionaire, fast-food and sports promoter to successfully overcome six major Democrats in the gubernatorial primary.

Yet, four days later, Brown telephoned Townsend from Washington, where he had attended the signing of the Mideast peace treaty, and said: "Let's do it."

Brown announced a few hours later when he landed here, and the most unusual campaign in Kentucky history got under way.

Townsend, Brown's campaign manager who has been associated with him for the past decade in business, described the prelude to Brown's almost astonishingly swift rise to victory.

Why Brown changed his mind still is not clear, although it apparently had something to do with his new wife's wishes, his acute sense that the time was right, and some quick research that seemed to show people in a number of other states were electing political newcomers who were businessmen.

Whatever the reasons, the machinery began to hum with a speed that may spell the end of traditional lengthy state campaigning through the courthouse and precinct route.

"Within seven days, we had a superb internal organization," said Bob Cobb, the campaign coordinator who, like Townsend, had come up through Jaycee ranks. He said the organization included the massive telephone bank, "the best pollster in the country" in Hugh Schwartz, and a top media adviser, Bob Squire.

Carroll Ladt, who had experience in politics, joined Townsend and Cobb, and the three began to plan the triumph.

Townsend indicated the whirlwind campaign was not that great a departure from the norm, but really a telescoping of traditional methods heavily dependent on the candidate's charisma.

"The exciting thing is that the people beat the politicians at their own game," Cobb said.

The Brown drive was characterized by some as "instant organization."

Not really so, Townsend responded, because an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 volunteers actually were organized down to the precinct level — in a hurry.

"Overnight organization is a better phrase," Cobb said.

Once the volunteers were recruited, they were brought in for training sessions and given specific assignments — much as in routine politics, according to Brown aides.

They also scoffed at what they called the exaggerated concept of media saturation — sometimes it seemed in the final weeks that Brown had preempted most of television.

Townsend said that probably not more than one-third of the estimated $1.25 million campaign expenditure went for media coverage.

Townsend and Cobb also claimed that state headquarters, housed in a beautiful residence near downtown Louisville, escaped the chaos that seems to plague all such places because the time was too short to establish cliques and engage in bickering.

They indicated that when all the political glamour is taken away from the overall operation, it was largely an expanded business promotion.

But on the details and operation of the phone bank and other mechanics, Townsend and Cobb were silent.

After all, they asked, why should Brown tell that secret to success to Republican Louie Nunn, his opponent in the fall.

People Evacuated While Track Cleared

MAYFIELD, Ky. (AP) — About 30 persons were expected to remain away from their homes today while Illinois Central Gulf Railroad crews cleared a section of track where five freight cars derailed.

Residents of the Water Valley community were ordered to leave their homes Tuesday after one of the derailed cars began leaking a flammable liquid.

"It was a precautionary measure," explained Gordon Nichols, spokesman for the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services. "The people were moved out so cleanup operations could begin."

He was unable to estimate how long this would take.

Nichols identified the liquid as methanol and said it had been leaking about a gallon every ten minutes before workers managed to contain the seepage. He said some leaked into a nearby creek.

Another car containing methanol also left the track but no spillage was reported nor was there any from the cars containing aluminum hydrate and butadiene.

L.H. "Dick" Frymire, state railroad commissioner, said the leak was stopped early Tuesday evening. He said residents would remain evacuated until the tracks were cleared sometime today.

Frymire said the train derailed on a passing track, which he described as being "in pretty bad shape."

"After today, there won't be any trains using that passing track until the ICG gets it fixed," Frymire added.

Nichols said the evacuation covered a 1,000 square foot area around the wreckage site in Graves County.

The freight train was pulling 42 cars at the time of the derailment.

Cosmic Radiation May Have Helped Evolution

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A lethal bombardment of cosmic radiation from an exploding star may have blanketed the Earth 65 million years ago, wiping out the dinosaurs and paving the way for man's evolution, University of California researchers say.

The new theory, based upon radiological testing of the rare element iridium, is another attempt at explaining the relatively rapid disappearance of the huge reptiles who once ruled their steamy environment, the researchers say.

University geologist Walter Alvarez, who presented a report on the group's findings Monday to an American Geophysical Union conference in Washington, D.C., called it "the most dramatic event involving the most dramatic animals ever seen."

"And it had tremendous implications," he said. "It gave the early mammals scope for evolution. Had the dinosaurs not become extinct, we might not be here."

Junior FBLA Members Hold Party For Seniors

The junior members of the Murray Area Vocational Education Center Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America had a senior sendoff party on May seventh at 6:30 p.m. at the Calloway County High School cafeteria. The juniors honored the seniors for all they have contributed to FBLA at the Vocational Center.

The invitations and decorations, designed and prepared by the juniors, emphasized the theme of the banquet which was the Junior's wish for each senior— "As you travel through life may you always have happiness, hope, success, friends, and faith."

Tammy Frankhouse hosted the program with Rene Elkins giving the welcome to the seniors with an original poem written for the occasion. Rhonda Garland and Laura Fones made predictions of what the seniors will be doing the next few years as they travel the "Road of Life." Each senior was presented with a glass engraved with "FBLA."

Named as Outstanding FBLA Member of the Murray Vocational Center Chapter, an award given by the chapter members to the one member they feel has done the most to promote FBLA and its projects, was Shelia Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Phillips.

In her two years at the Center, Shelia served as chapter reporter and president, and as Region I vice president, highest office in the region. As region vice president she planned and presided at the Region I Leadership Conference. She also served on the State FBLA Executive Council with her duties being to assist in planning all state activities and projects and in conducting the state leadership conference.

The meeting was closed with the installation of the newly elected officers for 1979-80. The candlelight ceremony was led by chapter president, Shelia Phillips. New officers are Tammy Frankhouse, president; Rhonda Garland, secretary; Jamie Barnett, treasurer; Laura Morgan, historian.

Newly elected officers presented plaques of appreciation to the 1978-79 officers from the chapter. These officers were Shelia Phillips, president; Nathan White, vice president; Susan Snyder, secretary; Nancy Murdock, treasurer; Rhonda Garland, reporter; Ginger Meyers, parliamentarian; Jana Hopkins, historian.

Flowers and charms were presented to the advisers, Mrs. Martha Crawford and Mrs. Brenda Nix.

SHELIA PHILLIPS, right, was named as Outstanding Member of the Murray Area Vocational Center Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America for 1978-79. Making the presentation at the banquet was Tammy Frankhouse.

NEW OFFICERS of the Murray Area Vocational Center Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America for 1979-80 were installed at the recent banquet. Brown Says Nomination Shows Voters Tired Of Old Politics

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — John Y. Brown Jr. said today that his Democratic primary election is "the first time in my lifetime I can remember the machine politicians being beaten."

Brown said in an interview early today that his nomination in Tuesday's Democratic gubernatorial primary shows that voters are tired of old-style politics.

"To me, Louie Nunn is an old time politician," Brown said of the Republican he will face in the November election. "Our campaign is a refreshing approach to changing Kentucky state politics and giving the people a voice."

Historically, most decisions are political decisions," Brown continued. "I feel that Louie Nunn comes from the old political school."

Brown, who promised during the primary campaign to root politicians out of Frankfort, said he would run a dignified campaign against Nunn, a former governor. But Brown said he wouldn't be afraid "to call his hand from time to time."

The Lexington multimillionaire said he hadn't enjoyed the mudslinging of the primary campaign, but did not respond to personal attacks by Gov. Julian Carroll's administration because he was afraid it would divide the Democratic Party.

Brown said administration candidate Terry McBrayer's allusions to his gambling were "cheap shots."

Brown acknowledged that he has gambled, but he said he has never done anything illegal.

"It's a free country. What might be big stakes to them might not be to me," he said.

Brown said he would never consider legalizing gambling in Kentucky. He said the allegations were an intrusion into his personal life, like saying someone is overweight, or that he smokes or drinks.

"You can say this or that is wrong, but I feel like I've lived a moral life...an honorable life," he said.

Asked whether a federal probe and grand jury investigation of allegations of wrongdoing in state government circles will hurt his chances in November, Brown replied, "I don't carry the successes or burdens of (the administration). The public will know it's their burden...Louie Nunn was a great burden to carry himself."

Brown said he doesn't plan to release his income tax returns now that he is the Democratic nominee. He said a letter from his accountants stating that he has never been involved in anything illegal or any state government business was "more than I needed to do."

"I don't want to make a circus out of my finances," he said. "I don't see that it would serve the public good."

Brown said his tax returns are so complicated that they might be distorted by those who seek to use them against him.

"All my transactions have been done honorably...I've never asked my accountants to do anything improper," he said.

Brown said he plans to have fund-raisers to raise additional campaign funds for the November election, and said he expects to continue running the same kind of intensive campaign that he did in the primary.

He said he prefers not to think of it as a "media blitz" but a "people blitz."

Brown said he expects to continue intensive television advertising, but probably would not need to use a helicopter so extensively to travel across the state. He defended his heavy use of media advertising, saying that "television doesn't lie."

The fast food and sports promoter, who has promised to bring new business to Kentucky, said he would not bring in heavy polluting industry, and will work to develop Kentucky's own resources, primarily coal and agriculture.

He said he probably wouldn't have gotten into the gubernatorial race if he hadn't married former Miss America Phyllis George last spring.

After spending today on the telephone thanking campaign workers, the couple plans to finish their honeymoon, Brown said.

Thunderstorms Move Across Southern Plains

By The Associated Press
Heavy thunderstorms moved across the southern Plains and the lower Mississippi Valley today after dropping large hail over eastern Texas, southern Louisiana and southern Mississippi.

High winds caused minor damage in the New Orleans area, and a tornado touched down northwest of Biloxi, Miss. There were no reports of damage or injuries.

In Fort Worth, Texas, water was six to eight inches deep on some streets. Flash flooding was reported Tuesday in Corsicana, Texas, where thunderstorms dumped more than six inches of rain. There were reports that water reached the tops of cars in some areas.

A flash flood watch was called for some central Wisconsin counties.

Showers and thunderstorms were expected today over New England and New York. Showers were forecast from the Gulf Coast through the Mississippi Valley and into the northern Plains. The Rocky Mountain states and the West Coast were to have sunny skies, and temperatures were to be mild across the nation.

Temperatures before dawn today ranged from 26 in Big Piney, Wyo., to 82 in Key West, Fla.

Fantasy And Folklore Beneficial To Children

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Fantasy and folklore can be powerful and beneficial influences during childhood, believes Gertrude Herman, library-school professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

In a course in storytelling and oral literature she passes her belief on to students who are or will be librarians and teachers.

New Book Policy Adopted At Library; Many Books Returned

"Since a new policy adopted by the Callaway County Public Library Board of Trustees was put into effect concerning overdue material, many books have been returned," Ronnie Jackson, chairman of Trustees, commented. "There are still far too many library patrons who do not take the responsibility of returning books on time and it has become necessary to take more serious measures to correct the situation," he further added.

The procedure used for getting delinquent material returned is as follows: When a book is one week overdue, a patron is notified either by phone or by postcard; when the book is one month overdue, a letter is sent informing the patron that the book must be returned within 48 hours or it will be treated as stolen property. The next step is that all of those who have not returned books will have their names published in the newspaper, and the final measure will be the release of names to the county attorney's office for possible court appearances.

"The amount of staff time involved, the cost of postage, and the lost materials are of great concern to us, as we hope to use library finances for improvement of library services rather than excessive spending on retrieval of overdue," commented Dr. Kopperud, trustee treasurer.

"Patrons may return their book 24-hours a day, either by using the book depository or the circulation desk book return; and books and material may be renewed either by phone or in person," Kopperud added.

"We hope people who use the library will cooperate by making every effort to get their books returned on time," Jackson stated.

Patrons currently listed as having overdue books are:

Influence Of Governor Less Effective Statewide

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — While the coattails of former Republican Gov. Louie Nunn proved beneficial in Tuesday's primary, the influence of current Democratic Gov. Julian Carroll proved to be less effective in races for statewide offices.

Six candidates who were officially or unofficially connected with Nunn, the GOP gubernatorial nominee, won the Republican nomination for statewide constitutional offices.

However, candidates directly associated with the Carroll administration won only one race. Raymond Barber, in the race for superintendent of public instruction.

Barber withstood a strong challenge by Jerry Alleyne and surprisingly strong showings by two other candidates.

Barber, a former state legislator and administrative aide to Carroll, had resigned as deputy superintendent early this year to run in the primary.

Alleyne, who lost a similar race four years ago to current Superintendent James Graham. Kentucky State University professor John Cooper received 22 percent of the vote, while George Tolhurst of Louisville got 10 percent.

State Rep. Steve Beshear of Lexington, often an outspoken critic of the power structure during three terms of the state House, defeated former state Justice Secretary Jack Smith for the nomination for attorney general.

torney general.

Graham, who had fallen out politically with Carroll during the last legislature, won nomination for state auditor, defeating Louisville attorney George Salem and Sara Bell, chief clerk of the House who had the tacit backing of Carroll supporters.

Alben Barkley II, grandson of the former Kentucky senator and vice president of the United States, defeated a crowded field of six other candidates for the nomination for state agriculture commissioner.

Fred Waters, who had left a post in the Carroll Administration to run, was fourth behind Mancil Vinson and former state Rep. Ed Brown.

State Treasurer Frances Jones Mills won the Democratic nomination for secretary of state but received unexpectedly strong opposition from Ray Adkins of Whitesburg, who was listed on the ballot as "I am a Democrat."

Representing the Republicans in November's General Election will be Frank Groschelle of Bowling Green, running for superintendent of public instruction; Roy Gray Jr. of Nicholasville for agriculture commissioner; James Wilhite of Lexington for treasurer; Mary Louise Foust of Shelbyville for auditor; Rowe Harper of Owensboro running for secretary of state and Ron Snyder of Jefferson County for attorney general.

While Nunn had not endorsed a slate of candidates, he had expressed personal support or praise individually for the candidates who won.

Groschelle, 46, a management consultant, served under Nunn when he was governor from 1967 to 1971 as a special assistant and was regional director for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare from 1971 to 1977. He defeated Yale J. Lubkin of Casey County.

Gray, 50, who operates beef cattle farms in Fayette and Jefferson counties, won nomination in his first race for public office over frequent candidate Tommy Klein of Louisville and newcomer Clyde Simsek of Ferguson.

Wilhite, a member of the Lexington Fayette County Urban-County Council, easily defeated former state Rep. Charles Hardwick of Betsy and Thomas Exterkamp of Covington. Mrs. Foust, who has served three terms as state auditor as a Democrat, will try for a term on the GOP ticket after switching her party allegiance two years ago. The 69-year-old attorney and certified public accountant was an easy winner over Louisville accountant Dan Mattingly.

Harper, 34, a gasoline distributor, had worked in the Highway Bureau during the Nunn administration. He defeated James Van Hoose of Paintsville by less than 6,000 votes. Snyder, 40, is a brother of U.S. Rep. Gene Snyder, R-Ky., and a former Jefferson County city attorney. He defeated Lester Burns of Manchester, who was the unsuccessful GOP nominee for attorney general in 1967.

Two Veteran Senators Lose; Three Others Barely Hang On

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two veteran state senators lost their jobs in Tuesday's primary and three others hung on to their seats in the Senate by the barest of margins.

Sens. Kelsey Friend, D-Pikeville, and Tom Mobley, D-Louisville, went down to defeat in their bids for renomination after two terms each in the Senate.

Sens. A.D. "Danny" Yocom, D-Louisville; Georgia Davis Powers, D-Louisville, and Pat McCuiston, D-Pembroke, won close races.

Three incumbent representatives — James "Jitter" Allen, D-Martin; John Hurst, D-Bloomfield and Mark Fitzgerald, D-Cynthiana, also lost in the primary.

Mobley, who served three terms in the state House in the mid 1950s while living in Bowling Green, lost the Democratic primary in the 19th senate district by less than 100 votes to Bill "Fibber" McGee, a Louisville restaurant owner.

Allen was defeated for renomination to a third term in the House by political newcomer by Gregory Stumbo of Prestonsburg, a member of one faction of the politically active Floyd County family. Friend, the Democratic whip, lost to John Doug Hays, a Pikeville lawyer who ran a strong campaign charging that Friend had not properly represented his district.

Hays, 34, did not directly make an issue of Friend's controversially large income as a lawyer in black lung cases, but concentrated on what he claimed was a lack of state services in the district, which includes Pike and Letcher counties in far eastern Kentucky.

McCuiston defeated Cadiz attorney Tim Futrell by 319 votes in the 3rd senate district, while Powers, the first black and only woman in the Senate, had a 102-vote lead over Gerald Neal with one precinct still uncounted.

Yocom, a member of the Democratic leadership as caucus chairman, barely won renomination over Jean Ruffra, former chairman of the Jefferson County Board of Education.

Yocom will face Republican Barbara Sandusky, who won a narrow primary victory over Paul Johnston, in the November general election.

Fitzgerald, as a two-term legislator, was defeated by Mark Farrow in the 62nd district, while Hurst lost to Kenny Rapier of Bardonia in the 50th district.

Rep. Claudia Riner, D-Louisville, who had been expected to receive a stiff test from Michael Thomas in the 36th district in Louisville, won a surprisingly easy victory and also had her third son less than one hour after the polls opened.

Mrs. Riner still will face Republican Stuart Pearlman in November.

Rep. C.M. "Hank" Hancock, D-Frankfort, was an easy winner in his primary over Frankfort Mayor James Burch and will be unopposed for a fourth term in the House.

Sens. Woodrow Stamper, D-West Liberty; Michael Moloney, D-Lexington; Gene Huff, R-London; Richard Weisenberger, D-Mayfield and Gus Wehner, D-Covington, all won renomination and will be unopposed in the general election.

Superintendent Asks For Check Of Attendance In Border County Schools

UNION CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Obion County School Superintendent Vinson Thompson says school attendance in the state's border counties should be checked to see how many out-of-state students are attending Tennessee schools.

Thompson also said Tuesday he may file a lawsuit if Obion County is forced to repay Tennessee because it counted Kentucky students on attendance lists.

Education Commissioner Ed Cox ordered a review of the county's attendance rolls after plaintiffs in a lawsuit against the school system alleged Tennessee was footing the bill for some Kentucky students.

"I'm not mad at the commissioner because he's just doing his job," Thompson said. "But if Obion County has this placed against it, I may file a class-action lawsuit asking the commissioner to check each and every county in the state that borders another state for the same thing."

Thompson said he's not denying Kentucky students were counted, "but we want everybody treated the same."

Thompson and state education official Mike Barker began inspecting the records Tuesday. "We're not done yet," Thompson said, "but we are estimating that possibly 73 Kentucky students are included on our rolls."

In a May 22 letter, Cox told Thompson the state would deduct any amount paid for Kentucky students from the system's June check.

Thompson said Tuesday students from neighboring Fulton County, Ky., were counted among the county's 5,085 students for purposes of state funding. He said Obion County received about $36,000 from Tennessee for the Kentucky students.

Thompson said he did not know how large the system's June check would be, but he said he would fight any attempt to withhold money because of the Kentucky students.

Cox said Tuesday no other similar cases had been called to his attention.

Thompson said Kentucky students currently pay $30 a year in tuition. Based on a state formula, Obion County, located in Northwest Tennessee, receives $442 for each student in the system, he said.

The Kentucky students have attended school in Obion County "for as long as anyone can remember," Thompson said.
